1/19/2022	12:43:08	Joshua Dentrinos	ISRA/Traders Global Group	hey guys,<LINEBREAK><LINEBREAK>more slippage on small size that seems excessive. Please check, we are getting too many complaints about slippage on small positions so perhaps we need to evaluate things a bit	ISRA/Traders Global Group

1/19/2022	13:41:03	Patrick Powers	ISRA/Traders Global Group	Hi Josh, the fills on both orders were in line with the prevailing market price. 1812.76 was actually the price that triggered the sl and the previous tick was 1814.86 (on the bid). The delay settings did not impact their fills. This is just the difference between filling at client request vs filling at the prevailing market rate<LINEBREAK><LINEBREAK>Also, it's worth noting that the trade size will not have an impact on client fills since MT4 prices are just the TOB price.	ISRA/Traders Global Group
1/19/2022	13:43:54	Joshua Dentrinos	ISRA/Traders Global Group	thank you	ISRA/Traders Global Group
1/19/2022	16:12:47	Joshua Dentrinos	ISRA/Traders Global Group	Hey guys,<LINEBREAK><LINEBREAK>We really have so much slippage complaints I have to think of some way to mitigate the problem here. Its mostly on stop losses where the complaint is. <LINEBREAK><LINEBREAK>If we removed the delay will the price still execute at best available thus stopping the gap traders etc?	ISRA/Traders Global Group
1/19/2022	16:13:14	Joshua Dentrinos	ISRA/Traders Global Group	ive never seen so many complaints about slippage and handling this is going to be complicated	ISRA/Traders Global Group
1/19/2022	16:15:43	Ben Johnson	ISRA/Traders Global Group	Hi Josh,<LINEBREAK>We can remove some or all of the delay if you want and simply leave slippage enabled but it seems like this is just a difference between clients previously receiving their requested fill every time (auto execution) vs them receiving a proper fill based upon the current market rate	ISRA/Traders Global Group

1/19/2022	16:16:58	Ben Johnson	ISRA/Traders Global Group	We can absolutely remove the delay though if that's what you want?<e_m a="tlbenjohnson" ts_ms="1642609018094" ts="1642609018" t="61"></e_m>	ISRA/Traders Global Group
1/19/2022	16:17:07	Joshua Dentrinos	ISRA/Traders Global Group	I have to think about the best approach for this, and the ramifications	ISRA/Traders Global Group

1/19/2022	16:19:08	Ben Johnson	ISRA/Traders Global Group	Alright, sounds good, let us know if you want us to change any of the settings	ISRA/Traders Global Group
1/19/2022	16:44:03	Joshua Dentrinos	ISRA/Traders Global Group	the real question I have is all this slippage is it natural	ISRA/Traders Global Group
1/19/2022	16:44:15	Joshua Dentrinos	ISRA/Traders Global Group	i understand some prices are gapping due to volatility	ISRA/Traders Global Group
1/19/2022	16:44:28	Joshua Dentrinos	ISRA/Traders Global Group	but there are thousands of trades with slippage	ISRA/Traders Global Group
1/19/2022	17:25:41	Patrick Powers	ISRA/Traders Global Group	Hi Josh, from what we've seen, this is natural and resembles real market execution. Are most of the complaints on orders that were triggered by a SL? If so, this brings us back to the difference between executing at the client request vs executing at the prevailing market price	ISRA/Traders Global Group
1/19/2022	17:26:24	Joshua Dentrinos	ISRA/Traders Global Group	the majority of complaints are SL. If we were to execute users SL at the requested price but the rest at market price a) is that possible and b) would it affect the bottom line significantly?	ISRA/Traders Global Group
1/19/2022	17:32:36	Patrick Powers	ISRA/Traders Global Group	Yes, we can change the setting to fill at the client request for SL's, but this will impact the bottom line. Filling at the client request on SL's will be beneficial for gap traders specifically	ISRA/Traders Global Group
1/19/2022	17:33:07	Joshua Dentrinos	ISRA/Traders Global Group	so this would mean that all stop orders are executed perfectly	ISRA/Traders Global Group
1/19/2022	17:33:14	Joshua Dentrinos	ISRA/Traders Global Group	not just the stop loss orders	ISRA/Traders Global Group
1/19/2022	17:33:15	Joshua Dentrinos	ISRA/Traders Global Group	makes sense.	ISRA/Traders Global Group
1/19/2022	17:34:30	Patrick Powers	ISRA/Traders Global Group	Correct, all stop orders.	ISRA/Traders Global Group

1/19/2022	17:37:12	Joshua Dentrinos	ISRA/Traders Global Group	the weird thing is we only have 20% more failures than passes on the trading server but still are getting huge numbers of slippage complaints	ISRA/Traders Global Group
1/19/2022	17:37:22	Joshua Dentrinos	ISRA/Traders Global Group	so people are having more success but also complaining more.	ISRA/Traders Global Group
1/19/2022	17:38:26	Jeff Wilkins	ISRA/Traders Global Group	Yeah, I think it is really just traders receiving proper execution	ISRA/Traders Global Group
